

The Jewish Online Museum (JoM) is a non-profit, web-based cultural resource beginning from New Zealand that seeks to extend public access to artefacts, images and narratives that best represent the heritage and significant contribution of the Jewish peoples to New Zealand.

JoM is designed as an innovative and interactive educational and cultural resource for future generations that will preserve, interpret and engage with the complex histories and heritage of Jewish peoples to art, culture, science and economy in NZ and overseas.

JoM is a world-first online museum and is charting new territory in the digital museum sector. JoM is youth and educationally focused and offers fresh and contemporary modes of communication to the Jewish community's expression and voice to increase tolerance, awareness and understanding of this globally dispersed community of peoples and their cultures.
